SOCIO-ECONOMIC TRENDS

EARTH SYSTEM TRENDS

How can business respond to these issues?

Defensively
(Shareholder Value)

"We're already contributing to the SDGs because we create jobs, we're reducing year-on-year emissions, etc."

Selectively
(Shared Value)

"We're positively impacting SDG 3 because we sell drugs / SDG 12 because we sell consumer goods / etc."

Holistically
(System Value)

"We're transforming our business to solve a key SDG challenge, while working to ensure we're not slowing down progress elsewhere."

A blueprint for regenerative business

People have the capacity and opportunity to lead fulfilling lives

Our physical presence protects the health of ecosystems and communities

Natural resources are managed to safeguard communities, animals and ecosystems

The environment is free from pollution

Energy is renewable and available to all

Water is responsibly sourced and available to all

Waste does not exist

VIESSMANN

Sustainable business future

Viessmann Sustainability
Report 2023 Summary

Our material sustainability issues

Our sustainability strategy

Our sustainability strategy lays the foundation for Viessmann's transformation towards becoming a fully sustainable company and is an integral part of our company strategy.

It consists of:

1. A 2050 vision that aligns with our company's purpose.
2. Focus areas with clear targets for 2030 and 2050, supported by key performance indicators.
3. Organizational enablers that facilitate the execution of our strategy.

Case study: NZ Plant & Food Research

The Future-Fit Business Benchmark is quantitative, transparent, action-oriented, and built on robust systems science. Those features are all really important for an impact-focussed, science-based organisation like Plant & Food Research.
